

Information for producers who have received movement control or quarantine orders from the Canadian Food Inspection Agency

This document is summary of producer responsibilities while under CFIA orders and provides information on requesting movement permissions.

Premises with animals under movement controls (issued a CFIA 4206 order)

This order covers all of the animals listed in the order and prevents the movement of animals without prior permission from the CFIA. Movement under license from the CFIA may be possible.

Examples of movements that may be licensed include:

- sending animals to slaughter
- moving animals to another location approved by the CFIA
- moving animals to another pasture or grazing area that you own

You must also contact the CFIA if:

- an animal dies on your premises (to determine the need for a post-mortem examination)
- you want to send a dead animal or tissues for a veterinary post-mortem examination

This order does not restrict the movement of vehicles, equipment, feed or hay.

Producers should follow good security practices as described in the Canadian Beef Cattle On-Farm Biosecurity Standard - <http://www.inspection.gc.ca/eng/1344707905203/1344707981478>

If you require a CFIA license or have questions about animal movements, please contact:

CFIA Control Unit

Email: CFIA-Control-Controle-ACIA.TB2016@inspection.gc.ca

Email is the recommended contact method so that details can be captured and whenever possible have the license sent electronically.

The control unit is available Monday to Friday from 08:00 to 16:00 MST (closed for statutory holidays)

Premises that have been declared an infected place (issued a CFIA 4204 order)

This order applies to almost all movement of animals or things on or off your premises that may have come into contact with the disease agent. There will be limited opportunities for movement under license from the CFIA.

Things that require a CFIA license to move off your premises include:

- live animals and animal products such as semen and milk products
- manure, straw, feed and hay
- equipment and vehicles used for animal care or driven in fields where potentially infected animals are present or were recently present

You must also contact the CFIA if:

- an animal dies on your premises (to determine the need for a post-mortem examination and compensation evaluation if the animal has already been ordered destroyed).

Subject to a risk evaluation and review from the CFIA, it may be possible to allow:

- the removal of feed and hay for use by animals from other premises if the products have been securely stored with no animal access
- adjustments to areas covered by the CFIA order to allow access to grazing (e.g. standing winter corn) if the field has not been used by animals under control and adequate separation of animals can be maintained

Examples of movements that do not require a CFIA license include:

- cars and trucks that are not used for animal care or driven in grazing areas
- recreation equipment or sporting goods that have not been exposed to animals or animal grazing areas

Producers should follow good security practices as described in the Canadian Beef Cattle On-Farm Biosecurity Standard - <http://www.inspection.gc.ca/eng/1344707905203/1344707981478>
